

December 2020

New York After 3PM

For years, afterschool programs have kept kids safe, inspired them to learn, and offered parents peace of mind that their children are constructively engaged in the hours between the end of the school day and when parents return from work.

Yet, in New York, America After 3PM found that for every child in an afterschool program, 4 are waiting to get in, with 340,053 children alone and unsupervised after school.

The number of students left without afterschool in New York is on the rise

There are now 1,607,533 children (66%) in New York who would be enrolled in an afterschool program if one were available to them. In the last decade, the number of children unable to access afterschool programs has grown in New York by 492,609.

Unmet demand for afterschool programs by year

New York children who are fortunate enough to take part in afterschool programs are receiving critical supports

94% of New York parents are satisfied with their child's afterschool program. New York children in afterschool programs are:

	Building life skills	78%
	Getting help with homework	86%
	Engaging in STEM or computer science learning opportunities	84%

	Taking part in physical activities	83%
	Receiving healthy snacks or meals	72%
	Interacting with peers and building social skills	86%

Additionally, New York parents report high levels of satisfaction with supports in their child's afterschool program, including:

	A safe environment	89%
	Knowledgeable and caring staff	84%

Moreover, New York parents report that afterschool programs are a lifeline for working families:

80%

of parents with a child in an afterschool program agree that the program helps them keep their job or work more hours of parents overall agree that afterschool programs provide working parents peace of mind

82%

441,393

Number of children in afterschool programs

5.3 hours

Average hours per week children spend in an afterschool program

3.6 days

Average days per week children spend in an afterschool program

$129.20

Average weekly cost of afterschool programs*

33%

Percentage of children in afterschool who are from low-income households

77%

Percentage of afterschool programs located in a public school building

**Among parents who report that they pay a fee for their child's afterschool program*

Afterschool in New York

Cost and access top the list of roadblocks to afterschool program participation

A significant percentage of parents in New York report challenges to enrolling their child in an afterschool program, for example, 3 in 5 parents said that the lack of a safe way for their child to get to and come home from programs was an important factor in their decision not to enroll their child in a program.

% of parents reporting they did not enroll their child in an afterschool program because of the following:

As high levels of parents reported barriers to participation, afterschool program participation in New York saw a decrease compared to the last America After 3PM survey in 2014.

Afterschool program participation by year

There is significant bipartisan support for greater investment in afterschool

To help ensure that all children in New York who want to participate in an afterschool program are able, greater investment in afterschool is needed. Support for public funding for afterschool programs in New York is high, with 88% of parents in favor of funding for programs that provide afterschool opportunities.

In the face of the ongoing pandemic, parents nationally continue to see afterschool programs as a resource to promote their child's growth and development while also helping parents maintain or find employment. In an October 2020 national survey of parents, 77% agreed that Congress should provide additional funding for afterschool programs to operate during virtual school days.

Strong support for public funding across the political spectrum

About the survey

America After 3PM is a national survey of parents or guardians of school-aged children, screening 31,055 households and having 14,393 households completing in-depth interviews via an online survey using a blend of national consumer panels. At least 200 households completed interviews in every state and Washington D.C., between January 27 and March 17, 2020. Where the minimum could not be met, supplemental telephone interviews were conducted. Data were collected by Edge Research on behalf of the Afterschool Alliance. The percentages and projected numbers in America After 3PM are based on survey responses from parents. In New York, 1,303 households and 3,856 children were screened for this study. Child-level statewide projections and total school enrollment numbers are based on 2018-2019 Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics. Total school enrollment for New York is 2,894,576.

For additional information about America After 3PM, visit: <http://www.afterschoolalliance.org/AA3PM/>.

America After 3PM was made possible with the support of the New York Life Foundation, Overdeck Family Foundation, The Wallace Foundation, the S.D. Bechtel, Jr. Foundation, Altria Group, the Walton Family Foundation, and the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation.