

Afterschool Progress Report and Consumer Guide: Delaware

How Delaware is Helping to Keep the Lights on After School

Afterschool in Delaware

Afterschool participation is on the decline in Delaware as the rate of self-care is rising. Furthermore, Delaware's statewide afterschool network is no longer in operation and the need for afterschool programs is slipping off the radar for state policy makers and leaders. Delaware's children and families could greatly benefit from rededicating resources and attention to meeting the needs of youth in the hours after school.

Growth in Afterschool Participation

For more on afterschool availability in Delaware check out Delaware After 3PM.

Delaware	2004	2009
Percentage of Kids in Afterschool Programs	16%	14%
Percentage of Kids in Self Care	20%	31%
Percentage of Parents Extremely/Somewhat Satisfied with Afterschool Program	100%	83%
Percentage of Kids Who Would Participate if an Afterschool Program were Available	42%	31%
Percentage of Kids in Summer Learning Programs	--	30%

Based on the FY2011 funding level and an average per student cost of $1000, 21st Century Community Learning Centers (21st CCLC) can serve 5,654 students in Delaware. However, that is only a small fraction of the 46,017 kids in Delaware who are eligible to participate in a 21st CCLC program, if more funding were available.

Leading State for Afterschool with Room to Grow

"After-school programs are effective in raising student skills because they feature educational and experiential activities that are critical for student development. These programs also combine fun with learning and provide the one-on-one instruction and hands-on learning that many children need to have to excel."

- Jack Markell, Governor

Consumer Guide: Delaware

For many adults in America, thinking about the hours after the school day ends conjures up memories of doing homework, playing pick-up basketball, taking guitar or dance lessons or going home to Mom and a snack. But for millions of children today, those images are nothing like their reality. In fact, each day in America, more than 15 million children—some as young as 5 years old—are without supervision at home or on the streets.

The Afterschool Alliance has a host of resources that can help ensure that your child can enjoy the safe environment and proven academic and social gains that afterschool programs can afford.

Methodology:

The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides are sponsored by jcpenny. Scores for the Progress Reports were devised using a range of factors falling under three major categories: Growth in Afterschool Participation, Developments in State Afterschool Policy and Funding and Advancements in State Afterschool Leadership. Data from the America After 3PM survey, also sponsored by jcpenny, was used in assessing the afterschool participation portion of the Progress Reports. Between March and May 2009, 29,754 parents/guardians were surveyed for America After 3PM. The remainder of the Progress Reports and Consumer Guides were created utilizing up to date policy and leadership developments obtained from afterschool leaders in the states, most notably the forty statewide afterschool networks. The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides reflect the data and resources available at the time of their release in October 2011.
