Expanding learning and supports for an equitable recovery

This is Afterschool in Florida

In Florida, afterschool programs provide expanded learning opportunities to 504,759 students and are a lifeline for working families. In Florida, 85% of parents report that all young people deserve access to quality afterschool and summer programs. Yet, too many kids in Florida are being left out. In fact, for every child in an afterschool program, 3 more would participate if a program were available.

Helping young people learn, grow, and thrive

Students in afterschool programs in Florida are:

- Interacting with peers and building social skills 93%
- Getting homework help 72%
- Taking part in physical activities 88%

An evaluation of Florida’s 21st CCLC programs during the 2018-19 school year by Florida State University’s Florida Center for Research in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics, found that, based on teacher surveys, program participants improved in academic performance and positive school behaviors. On a scale that ranged from 1 (“declined”) to 3 (“improved”), teachers reported that students improved their class behavior (3.0), motivation to learn (2.96), homework completion (2.95), and academic performance (2.91). Students agreed that their programs helped them to solve problems in a positive way (2.68) and get along with others (2.58). They also said that the programs had adults who cared about them (2.8) and made them feel safe (2.77), with 1 corresponding to “not at all” and 3 corresponding to “definitely.”

Parents in Florida agree that afterschool programs:

- Provide opportunities to build life skills 82%
- Get kids excited about learning 78%
- Reduce the likelihood that youth will use drugs or engage in other risky behaviors 76%

Call and response: Afterschool programs stepping up during the pandemic

From the outset of the pandemic, afterschool programs have adapted and expanded their services to best meet the needs of the children and families they serve. In Jacksonville, the JAMS program continued providing music, film, visual arts, and dance classes. Its 17,000-sf campus, which typically houses 100 students, innovated to continue serving kids and families during COVID-19 by operating at a reduced capacity. Thanks to a tent school outside the Gargiulo Education Center in Naples, migrant children have a safe place to learn. They too implement safety measures. For example, markers outline six-foot boundaries and spaces are sterilized between each session.

A 2021 national survey of afterschool providers finds programs continue to provide:

Parents in Florida are behind public investment in afterschool programs

89% of parents favor public funding of afterschool programs to expand opportunities for kids in underserved communities.

A lifeline for working families

A national survey of parents in the fall of 2020 found that as the pandemic continued to disrupt school schedules, most parents were concerned about their child’s social and emotional well-being and connection to peers, as well as their own ability to continue to provide learning support and/or care for their child as virtual school and distance learning extends into 2021.

Based on the 2020 America After 3PM household survey, parents in Florida agree that afterschool programs:

- Build positive relationships between children and adults 77%
- Keep kids safe and out of trouble 75%
- Help working parents keep their jobs 83%
- Provide working parents peace of mind 82%

A smart investment

Research spanning several states shows that every $1 invested in afterschool programs saves at least $3 by:

1. Increasing kids’ earning potential
2. Improving kids’ performance at school
3. Reducing crime and juvenile delinquency

Additionally, Community Learning Centers leverage diverse partners to meet community needs. A typical program receives $67,000 from partners to supplement its federal funding. Nationwide, partner contributions totaled more than $1 billion between 2006 and 2010.
