Call and response: Afterschool programs stepping up during the pandemic

From the outset of the pandemic, afterschool programs have adapted and expanded their services to best meet the needs of the children and families they serve. The Boys & Girls Club of Douglas provided virtual programming for families and food assistance for 138 people from March to June 2020. By June, the Club safely re-opened for on-site summer programming, serving an average of 75 kids daily while continuing to provide food assistance to members. In fall 2020, the club opened its doors again for on-site programming, meeting the needs of 278 kids and serving over 12,000 meals by the end of 2020.

A 2021 national survey of afterschool providers finds programs continue to provide:

Academic enrichment	94%
Time to interact with peers	86%
Physical activity	81%
Snacks or meals	77%
Check-ins with student and families	32%
In-person services during virtual school days*	24%

Looking toward the summer, 79% of providers will be offering summer programming.

21st Century Community Learning Centers

21st Century Community Learning Centers (21st CCLC) are local before-school, afterschool, and summer learning programs that serve students attending high-poverty, low-performing schools, engaging students in hands-on learning activities aimed at supporting their academic growth. They provide a variety of enrichment activities to complement school-day learning and offer educational and support services to the families of participating children.

In Wyoming, 6,620 children in 70 communities take part in a Community Learning Center.

21st CCLC grants are the only dedicated federal funding source that support local communities' afterschool and summer programs.

The 2020 Department of Education annual performance report of 21st CCLC found that among regular participants:

Nearly half improved their math (48%) and English grades (48%)

69% improved homework completion and class participation

62% improved their behavior

A lifeline for working families

A national survey of parents in the fall of 2020 found that as the pandemic continued to disrupt school schedules, most parents were concerned about their child's social and emotional well-being and connection to peers, as well as their own ability to continue to provide learning support and/or care for their child as virtual school and distance learning extends into 2021.

Based on the 2020 America After 3PM household survey, parents in Wyoming agree that afterschool programs:

- Build positive relationships between children and adults 82%
- Keep kids safe and out of trouble 73%
- Help working parents keep their jobs 77%
- Provide working parents peace of mind 83%

A smart investment

Research spanning several states shows that every $1 invested in afterschool programs saves at least $3 by:

- Increasing kids' earning potential
- 2 Improving kids' performance at school
- Reducing crime and juvenile delinquency

Additionally, Community Learning Centers leverage diverse partners to meet community needs. A typical program receives $67,000 from partners to supplement its federal funding. Nationwide, partner contributions totaled more than $1 billion between 2006 and 2010.
