

Afterschool Progress Report and Consumer Guide: Wyoming

How Wyoming is Helping to Keep the Lights on After School

Afterschool in Wyoming

Nearly 1 in 5 children in Wyoming (19 percent) participate in afterschool programs - one of the highest percentages in the country. Wyoming also has a large proportion of low-income afterschool participants (47 percent), an indication that the state has been successful in serving its high-need youth. However, 38 percent of Wyoming children are in self-care and at risk during the after school hours. A greater commitment by state leaders to promoting and expanding access to safe environments where children can learn and grow after the school day ends can help ensure that fewer kids are unsupervised and missing out on learning opportunities during the after school hours.

Consumer Guide: Wyoming

For many adults in America, thinking about the hours after the school day ends conjures up memories of doing homework, playing pick-up basketball, taking guitar or dance lessons or going home to Mom and a snack. But for millions of children today, those images are nothing like their reality. In fact, each day in America, more than 15 million children—some as young as 5 years old—are without supervision at home or on the streets.

The Afterschool Alliance has a host of resources that can help ensure that your child can enjoy the safe environment and proven academic and social gains that afterschool programs can afford.

Methodology:

The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides are sponsored by jcpenny. Scores for the Progress Reports were devised using a range of factors falling under three major categories: Growth in Afterschool Participation, Developments in State Afterschool Policy and Funding and Advancements in State Afterschool Leadership. Data from the America After 3PM survey, also sponsored by jcpenny, was used in assessing the afterschool participation portion of the Progress Reports. Between March and May 2009, 29,754 parents/guardians were surveyed for America After 3PM. The remainder of the Progress Reports and Consumer Guides were created utilizing up to date policy and leadership developments obtained from afterschool leaders in the states, most notably the forty statewide afterschool networks. The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides reflect the data and resources available at the time of their release in October 2011.
