Amos O. Gray IV of Hot Springs Named One of 16 Afterschool Ambassadors in the United States This Year

Gray Will Work to Make Quality Afterschool and Summer Learning Programs Available to More Students and Families, Locally and Nationwide

Washington, DC – The Afterschool Alliance has selected Amos O. Gray IV, Founder of the High Impact Movement, to serve as a 2026 Afterschool Ambassador – one of just 16 leaders in the entire nation chosen for the honor this year. Afterschool Ambassadors continue working with local and statewide afterschool programs while serving the one-year Afterschool Ambassador term during which they engage with policy makers and community leaders to organize events and in other ways grow support for the afterschool and summer learning programs that students and families rely on.

“The country urgently needs strong afterschool advocates, so we are thrilled that Amos Gray will serve as an Afterschool Ambassador for the Afterschool Alliance this year. He will help spread the word that too many children and youth are without the afterschool programs that help them succeed in school and in life,” said Jodi Grant, executive director of the Afterschool Alliance. “This is a pivotal year when we must continue building support for these essential programs, which keep kids safe, inspire them to learn, and give parents peace of mind that their children are safe and supervised after the school day ends. Gray is exactly the kind of champion we need.”

“I am pleased and excited to have the opportunity to work with the Afterschool Alliance to increase awareness and support for afterschool and summer learning programs this year,” said Gray. “I’ve seen up close the many ways programs across our state help students succeed and help families overcome challenges. That’s especially important now, as so many families are struggling with high costs and too many students are disengaged. Afterschool and summer programs are uniquely positioned to help students connect with peers and caring mentors, explore their interests, and discover their passions. I am proud to be part of the afterschool movement and to be a 2026 Afterschool Ambassador.”

High Impact Movement empowers youth and families for a better future, encouraging youth to engage, reflect on themselves, and foster healthy relationships with others. The program places students in a three-to-one mentoring group with a trained mentor. Its school-based programs create a healthy environment for learning by partnering with schools in developing prevention and intervention strategies and programs that promote academic and life success for all students.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance’s annual rally for afterschool. Most of the thousands of local Lights On Afterschool events will be on or around Thursday, October 22, 2026.

A 2025 household survey found that the parents of 29.6 million children want afterschool programs for their children – but less than 7 million kids are currently enrolled. Another 22.6 million children would attend an afterschool program if it were available. That means three in four kids whose parents want afterschool programs for them (77%)—including many in middle- as well as low-income families – are being left behind. Cost and accessibility are the barriers many families cannot overcome. It’s no wonder that 89% of parents favor public funding for these programs. Ninety-five percent of parents with children in afterschool programs are satisfied with the program their child attends.

A large and powerful body of evidence demonstrates improvements in grades, school attendance, behavior and more among children who participate in afterschool programs. Researchers have also found that students in afterschool programs are more engaged in school, more excited about learning, and develop critical work and life skills such as problem solving, teamwork, and communication.
